"Obviously a Conservative vote there is slightly irrelevant to the outcome of the election," noted Mr Blackwell of the safe Tory seat. "But it's difficult to say how the votes of those who did not receive their papers would have been distributed.

The next week we all walked across Hyde Park to the Albert Hall for the big show. To our astonishment, thousands of people were outside the building, like some tribal gathering. "We've got to find a way to get to that next level," Pominville said. "I don't think we're that far off. Just a bounce here, a bounce there, would've probably helped. Being able to solve their goalie is obviously something that we weren't able to do."

"I was a medical student in the early 60s and remember being taught what to do if we found ourselves in the Antarctic with appendicitis. We were told to sit upright with our knees pulled up to our chests. But what makes Thred more than Instagram with slideshows is its robust set of creation tools.

Set the sugar and five tablespoons of water in a heavy-bottomed saucepan over a medium heat. Tilt the pan from time to time to help the sugar melt – don't stir. Once it's melted, turn the heat up high and cook until it caramelises (it will turn amber and then caramel pretty quickly).
